"The Only Newspaper in the World Devoted to the Interests of the Town of Northfield, Massachusetts"

Vol. I, No. 1, Whole Number 4940

Northfield, Massachusetts

Friday, November 2, 1956

Mrs. Horace Bolton, secretary in the Public Relations Department at The Northfield Schools, and chairman of the Concert Committee, is shown busily checking last-minute orders for tickets for the Saturday concert.

Mail Schedules Announced By Post Offices Here

Due to the confusion brought about by the change of train schedules out of Northfield, and the change from Daylight Saving Time, the postmasters of Northfield and East Northfield have jointly announced the current mail schedules as follows:

At Northfield post office:
Incoming from north and south, plus a direct pouch from East Northfield, at 8:30 a.m.
Incoming from south, plus a direct pouch from East Northfield, 3 p.m.
Incoming from north, 5:30 p.m.
The above deliveries are sorted and in mail boxes by about one hour later.
Outgoing mails close:
Northbound, plus a direct pouch from East Northfield, at 1:30 p.m.
Southbound, plus a direct pouch from East Northfield, at 3:45 p.m.
North — and southbound, 5:30 p.m.
The schedules of mail incoming and outgoing at East Northfield post office are approximately 15 minutes later, in all instances.

Tax Refund To Net Town $3,503

Northfield will receive a total of $3,503 more than anticipated as its share of income and corporation taxes collected by the state. The total refund due all towns in the Commonwealth is $11,300,000. Since the collections from income and corporation taxes exceeded the amounts estimated by the state earlier in the year, the refunds are being made in accordance with the equalized valuations as determined by the state legislature. Income tax collections in the state exceeded estimates by almost 10 million dollars. Corporation taxes exceeded state estimates by $2,000.

Several Subjects up For Council Meeting

The Civic Council meeting will be held Wednesday, Nov. 7, to discuss several subjects of interest. Among these will be the new Northfield Press; zoning regulations; Christmas remembrances for servicemen and a permit for a new gasoline station on Main St.

The meeting was postponed from Wednesday of this week because of the Halloween party held in the Town Hall that night.

Turkey Supper Well Attended

Approximately 192 persons attended a bountiful turkey supper at Trinitarian Congregational Church last night. The church dining room was filled almost to capacity and no one went away hungry. Rev. Joseph W. Reeves, pastor, introduced David Stryker of Amherst, publisher of The Northfield Press.

Auto Accident Here Injures Two Northfield Girls

Two Northfield girls suffered slight hurts in an auto accident at the railroad underpass on Route 10 Wednesday morning. The car in which they were riding, operated by Leslie C. Rickett, 59, of Orange, N. J., was forced against the side of the road by an unidentified green pick-up truck. According to state police, the car was traveling south when a truck entered the underpass from the opposite direction apparently not leaving enough room for Rickett to get by.

Margaret Ward, 10, of Glenwood Ave., suffered a scalp laceration, and Carolyn Hayes, 11, of 178 Main St., a nose bleed. Other passengers in the car were George Hayes, Jr., 7, and the son of Mr. Rickett.

The front end of the car was badly damaged and was towed to a Greenfield garage. State Troopers Walter Grimes and Bohdan Boluch from the Shelburne Falls station are investigating the accident.

Memorial Tablet

A white marble tablet has been erected to the memory of the late Dr. William Bollman in the First Reformed Church of Lancaster, Pa. Dr. Bollman has owned a home here for many years and had been active in many local affairs and organizations. The tablet bears, besides his name and dates of his ministry there, the last two verses of the eighth chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Romans.

Blood Donors Wanted

Persons who wish to donate blood to the Red Cross Blood Donor drive are asked to appear at Trinitarian Congregational Church between the hours of 12 noon and 5:45 p.m. Friday, November 9.

"FRIENDLY" CONTROVERSY OVER GAS STATION

Kiwanis Club Learns Methods Of Assessors

Speaker at the regular meeting of the Northfield Kiwanis Club Monday evening was Winthrop Spencer, clerk of the Board of Assessors. Mr. Spencer, member of the local club, talked on how the town would benefit by having a revaluation, and of a scientific valuation which would give a basis whereby all property would be assessed equally. Members asked questions after his talk.

The meeting was opened by Vice President Charles Llewellyn, who offered the blessing. Signing was under the direction of Summer Turner. The birthday of Dick Field and the anniversary of Stan Powers were celebrated by the club. Mr. Llewellyn reminded the committee chairmen that their reports are due by Thursday of this week, and that there will be a directors meeting that evening at Paul Jordan's home.

The meeting next Monday night will be at Town Hall where the high school seniors are putting on a public supper. The Club's speaker will be Samuel Blassberg, Greenfield attorney, who will tell of his experiences as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

In Senatorial Race

Among the strongly contested offices on which Northfield voters will make their choices at the polls Nov. 6 are those of state senator.

Ralph C. Mahar, Orange, (Rep.) is the senatorial incumbent. He has been for eight years in the House of Representatives and 12 years in the Senate, the last four years as chairman of the Senate Ways and Means committee. He is an attorney.

Edward P. Egan of Easthampton (Dem.) is the aspirant for senatorial office. His preparation for office he lists as: office manager of the board of public works, Easthampton, and part-time real estate associate and business man; 20 years of municipal experience.

On Thursday and Friday, Nov. 8 and 9, the Southern New England division of the Salvation Army will hold its annual retreat at The Northfield and Chateau.

More than seventy-five persons attended the public hearing at the town hall Monday, most of them to object to issuance of a permit for construction of a gasoline station on Main Street. Robert and Lawrence Whitney have requested

Town To Receive $13,522 In Extra Highway Funds

Northfield's share—$13,522.20—of the recent $200,000,000 bond issue enacted by the legislature may be used for resurfacing or reconstructing any public road, Assistant Commissioner Frederick Dole said today. While this money may be used to finance the town's share of Chapter 90 maintenance if this is necessary, Mr. Dole stated that it was the intention of the legislature that it be used in addition to present town highway maintenance.

"What this should result in is a speeding-up in our general program," Mr. Dole said.

Gill's allotment of this bond issue will amount to $6,906.54, and Franklin County towns will receive a total of $351,727.17 in extra highway funds.

$3,093 Received By Local Farmers

Farmers in Northfield have received 1956 Soil Bank Payments totalling $3,093.52. Soil Bank payments were made to farmers who took a portion of their 1956 allotted acreage out of production to help shrink national surpluses as well as to those proving crop loss by natural causes. Farmers in Gill received a total of $1,667.72.

Students Will Vote On Candidates for Highest Offices

The issues of the presidential election will be settled early for one segment of Northfield's population. The students of Northfield School for Girls will go to the polls tomorrow morning and cast their ballots in a straw vote being conducted by the American History students of the school. The voting is being carried out so authentically that even the girls who are away on weekends will a permit to build a gasoline station on the property of Norman E. Whitney at 41 Main Street, but selectmen will confer with the town planning board and assessors before announcing their decision.

Atty. Melvin Barclay of Greenfield represented a group of townspeople objecting to the proposal. He read a letter from William Calder of 45 Main St., now in Washington, D. C., who said he was against the project because the taxes from such property would not exceed $200 annually. This, he asserted, would not offset corresponding losses in valuation of nearby residential property.

There are six other gas stations on the main street, Calder said, and no need for another. Calder explained that many homes there are already having difficulty with sewage disposal and that another gas station with rest rooms would only add to the possible health hazard. Calder also cited a possible traffic hazard for motorists, and especially for child pedestrians.

Atty. Barclay then submitted to the selectmen two lists of other persons also objecting to the issuance of the permit.

Atty. Samuel Blassberg of Turners Falls, counsel for the Whitney brothers, supported the proposal, saying that a gas station can no longer be considered a fire hazard and that the site not only would not be a traffic hazard but that its location would serve to slow passing traffic.

Atty. Blassberg said that his experience was that property valuations near a well-kept modern gas station did not decrease. A survey taken in Northfield shows a need for another station, Blassberg said, and the petitioner should be given the opportunity to enter the business.

Among others supporting the proposal were Frank Williams and Charles Llewellyn of Northfield. Williams said that since Whitney had invested so much money in his property he should have the right to do as he pleases with it.

Llewellyn said that he regarded new business in the town as a sign of progress and was glad to see it come to Northfield.

Acilio R. Sandri of Greenfield, gasoline distributor for Cities Service stations, said that this

"The Only Newspaper in the World..."

When publication of Northfield's community newspaper was terminated September 30, 1949, its owners said, "We look forward to the day when Northfield will once again have a local newspaper."

That anticipated day has come.

With this issue, begins the paper-and-ink recording of human activity in this Franklin County town. Seven years after the passing of a respected town institution, citizens of Northfield are again to have their own chronicle of community life.

A newspaper is more than a chronicle—it is a weekly mirror of progress and decline, happinesses and sorrows, birth and death, victories and defeats—whatever the mirror reflects, all tempered with the wine of community betterment.

A newspaper records. But, it can perform other works. It can lead as well as chronicle. It can enlighten as well as entertain.

And best of all—if it is a country weekly, it can present not only the "big news" of the decisions of school boards and voters at town meeting time, but the event-by-event doings of the smallest club, the comings and goings of its citizens.

It does not end just there, however.

The masthead of The Northfield Press carries the slogan "The only newspaper in the world devoted to the interests of the Town of Northfield, Massachusetts." As publishers we will be responsible to the town and townspeople, presenting the news as fairly and completely as possible.

Newspapers, particularly the weekly kind, belong to the people more than to their publishers, editors, and scribes. The Northfield Press will be no exception. In this we ask your help, criticism and advice.

Miss Nancy Jack Wed Here In Beautiful Chapel Ceremony

Nancy Jane Jack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Jack of 16 Highland Ave., E. Northfield, was married to Philip Kerry Walsh, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard Walsh of Cleveland, on Oct. 20 in the Russell Sage chapel on the campus of Northfield School for Girls. The single-ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Joseph W. Reeves. Candelabra and baskets of white pompons decorated the altar. Mrs. Eugene Gangarz, organist, played traditional wedding music.

The bride was beautiful in a blush pink peau de soie gown of princess style, with short sleeves and round neckline embroidered with imported Chantilly lace, seed pearls and crystals. She wore a fingertip length veil of French illusion, held by a crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink roses with a center of white stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Murray of Watertown. Bridesmaids, who wore deep red velvet dresses with round necklines and gathered short sleeves, were the Misses Jean Kilpatrick of Watertown, N. Y., and Rachel Peckham of Tiverton, R. I.

Mrs. Jack, the bride's mother, wore a beige wool lace sheath dress with Empire line and a rose corsage; Mrs. Harry White, the bridegroom's aunt, wore a black velvet sheath dress and rose corsage.

William Prior of Chagrin Falls, O., was best man. Ushers were Alexander Greene of Syracuse, N. Y., Reginald Oates, Jr., of Green Farms, Conn., John Forker of Shaker Heights, O., and Peter Jack, the bride's brother.

The reception was held at the Weldon Hotel.

The bride wore a grey tweed suit with black accessories and rose corsage as she left on an unannounced wedding trip. The couple are at home now in Frankfurt, Germany.

After graduation from the Northfield School for Girls, the bride spent two years at Syracuse University and was graduated from Tobl Coburn School.

The bridegroom, now in the army, is a graduate of Proctor Academy and Middlebury College, and has attended Western Reserve Law School.

Conference Here For Youngsters

The Northfield League conducted a conference Sunday for 200 registered young people from schools and Congregational churches of the Connecticut Valley. The conference was held at the Trinitarian Congregational church under the direction of Miss Edith Bradley of Milton and Brattleboro. The speaker was the Reverend Hilda Ives of Boston, an expert in the field of rural church life. The Reverend Ives has taught at the Andover Theological seminary, preparing young ministers for rural church work. Following her talk, thirteen discussion groups were set up and they discussed rural church work in New England among themselves and then convened in a body to work out their general findings.

High School News Notes

Report cards for the first marking period were distributed Wednesday. High honors went to Carolyn Fish and Winthrop Spencer, both of whom had all "A" marks. Others with high averages were: seniors, Rita Gibson, Martha Parsons and Shirley Raymond; sophomores, Rachel Browning, Dorothy Given, Betsy Glazier, Robert Hafner, Susan Hammond, Marilyn Porter, Curtis Shine and Peggy Streeter; freshmen, Diane Cou-tu, Lois Heselton, Richard Repe-ta, Judie Rice and Jessie Skinner; eighth graders, Marsha Billings, Joyce Martin, Beverly Phelps, Joyce Roberts, Robert Duncan and Dennis Lanphear; seventh graders, Carol Atwood, Claire Walbridge, James Browning, Gail Leonard, Sandra Peterson and Joan Streeter.

The senior class, trying to increase their Washington trip fund, have now completed plans for the pot roast supper to be at the Town Hall next Monday evening at 6:30. A menu of tomato juice, pot roast, mashed potato, blue Hubbard squash, boiled sweet Spanish onions, rolls and butter, milk or coffee, apple pie and ice cream will be served for 99 cents complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Field will be in charge of the kitchen and have worked with Mr. Leonard in preparing the menu. Mrs. Mary Holton will be in charge of the dining room. Members of the senior class and a few of the parents will assist in preparing and serving the supper. Tickets will be available at the door.

Thursday marked the end of the regulation magazine sales campaign but subscriptions will be accepted through next Monday. A total of over $1,200 of subscriptions have been sold with the eighth graders providing the championship team of salesmen. More than half the sales were made by the eighth grade alone.

Letter To The Editor

Publisher, The Northfield Press:
I am happy to hear that The Northfield Press has resumed publication. There is great need for it among the very intellectual and progressive population of the Town of Northfield, which I consider one of the best in my district.

I wish you every success.

station would appeal to more transients and townspeople.

Among several speaking in opposition were Edward M. Powell, who said that the chief asset of the town was its beautiful Main street and that admitting one more station would open the way for yet others. Harry A. Erickson of 36 Main St. also pointed out that another station would not add to the beauty of the street. Dr. Richard Mercer of 40 Main St. spoke against the proposed permit and the Rev. Arthur Green pointed out that Northfield already has nine stations throughout town.

Buffalo Orchestra To Perform Here Saturday Evening

The appearance of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra here in the Northfield Auditorium tomorrow night probably marks the first time a major symphony orchestra has made a personal appearance here. Although a large audience is expected, there will be some seats available when the doors open at 7:45. Therefore, those who have not already purchased their tickets still have an opportunity to enjoy this unusual event in the acoustical perfection of the Auditorium.

The Buffalo Philharmonic is ranked among the ten finest orchestras in the United States and is more fortunate than most in having the internationally famous Josef Krips as its conductor.

The Buffalo Philharmonic really began to reach its "majority" musically in 1953 when Josef Krips was appointed Conductor and Music Director. In his first two years, Mr. Krips won acclaim for the orchestra through the introduction to Buffalo and America of "cycles"—Beethoven and Brahms.

Numerous tour engagements and invitations to its conductor came from Canada, Ohio, New England and Pennsylvania. For the third consecutive time, Josef Krips has been selected to conduct the famous Cincinnati May Festival.

Born in the music capital of the world — Vienna, Austria — Mr. Krips began his career in 1918, at age sixteen, as a violinist in the Vienna Volksoper. Later, he was appointed conductor of the Vienna State Opera and also appeared at the Salzburg Festival.

He raised the Vienna Opera to its former glory and excellence and started the Mozart renaissance that spread around the world. In the following years, Mr. Krips moved on to the Dutch Royal Opera company, the Concertgebouw Orchestra at Amsterdam, the London Symphony and the Buffalo Philharmonic, but the musical rebirth he had given to Vienna continued to grow.

Mr. Krips chose, as his associate, a young American, Willis Page. Mr. Krips' judgment was confirmed this past summer when Mr. Page was one of the four conductors in the United States, chosen by the American Composers Alliance to conduct a "concert of contemporary American music" — another musical "first" for Buffalo.

Europe cannot wholly do without Josef Krips, so when Mr. Page assumes the baton for the Summer and Winter Pops Concert series, Mr. Krips fulfills his musical obligations abroad.

Mr. Krips has already been engaged for next summer's Salzburg Festival, where he will conduct "The Abduction from Seraglio" and Symphony concerts. This will be his first appearance at Salzburg since 1950. In the spring of 1957, Josef Krips will return to

The Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra, appearing at Northfield Schools Auditorium Saturday evening.

Josef Krips

his beloved Vienna State Opera, which he rebuilt, to conduct Beethoven's "Fidelio," Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and "The Abduction from Segalio."

The program Saturday night includes: Overture to William Tell, by Rossini; Tone Poem, Don Juan, by Richard Strauss, and Symphony No. 3 in E Flat Major, Eroica, by Beethoven.

Reception Here In Honor of Mrs. Goodspeed

Mrs. L. Percy Goodspeed of Main street was honored at an informal reception at the First Parish (Unitarian) church Wednesday, Oct. 24. She retired in July of this year after sixteen years service to the church as organist and choir director. Background music was played by Miss Florence Colby, member of the church and musician at Northfield Hotel. Group singing was led by Rev. Richard Sechrist, former minister of the church, who also sang several solos. The present minister of the church, Rev. Robert S. Slater, spoke on behalf of the people of the church words of appreciation to Mrs. Goodspeed. He reminisced about Mrs. Goodspeed's mother who played the organ for many years. Mrs. Goodspeed first attended church as a child in her father's arms while her mother played the organ. As soon as she could see above the choir rail, she sang in the choir. Then she attended the New England Conservatory, studying piano. Toward the latter years of her mother's life, she substituted on the organ, assuming full duty January, 1940.

Mr. Slater spoke appreciatively of the many hours of work an organist must put in before the service is ready on Sunday morning: the hectic job of getting the choir to meet, the hours of practice, the time spent in selecting music. He mentioned the many other church services for which an organist must play. In conclusion he said, "If an organist merely survives this hectic, frantic pace for sixteen years she deserves a medal. But for one who not only survives but serves so faithfully and so skillfully, she deserves words that only the heart can express."

He then presented her a gift of an electric frying pan from the people of the church.

Mrs. Martin Vorce Dies at Age 80

Mrs. Martin (Jaynes) Vorce, 80, died Oct. 19 at the home of her daughter in Brattleboro.

Friends and former neighbors of Mrs. Vorce will long remember her for her active interest in and contributions to the life of Northfield. Mrs. Vorce, who was a member of the Trinitarian Congregational church, was for 17 years librarian at Dickinson Memorial library, from 1925 until 1942. She was a member of the Garden Club and Historical Society and an honorary member and past president of the Women's Club and the Fortnightly Club.

Born Lizette Jaynes, the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William D. Jaynes of Somerville, Aug. 16, 1876, she was married to the late Martin E. Vorce in 1895. Mr. Vorce, who died in March, 1953, was a deputy sheriff here and was well known for his painting. He had formerly conducted a stationery business in Somerville for some 20 years. Survivors are a son, Raymond M. Vorce of Littleton; two daughters, Mrs. Mildred Addison of this town and Mrs. Ray K. Thompson of Brattleboro; a sister, Mrs. Edward Morbin of this town; a brother, John M. Jaynes of South Freeport, Me.; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

In addition to her other interests, Mrs. Vorce was an able organist, and taught school for a while in one of the district schools. A hip injury had kept her in confinement for the last two years. She was a contributor of pictures and interesting historical information to the local library. Two large volumes of clippings from newspapers about Warwick, which Mrs. Vorce gathered from 1890-1918 will be presented to the library.

Funeral services were at the Trinitarian Congregational church Sunday with Rev. Joseph W. Reeves officiating. Burial was at Warwick cemetery. Bearers were Ralph Forsaith, Willard Parker, Harold Bigelow, Sr., Joseph Morgan, George Leonard and George Carr.

Glossie Bentley, 51, Dies Suddenly

Glossie Gray Bentley of 34 Main St., Northfield, died Wednesday evening, Oct. 24.

He was born June 16, 1905, at Rappo Mill, Va., son of Guy W. and Sarah Johnson Bentley. He came to Northfield in June of 1944. He was a member of Golden Rule Lodge, 77, AF and AM of Hinsdale, N. H.

Besides his widow, Mabel Bentley, he is survived by three children, Miss Esther M. P. Bentley of Boston, Ralph W. of Norwalk, Conn., and Roland F. of Northfield; two grandchildren; his father, of Arlington, Vt.; a sister, Mrs. Ruby Willis of Pittsfield, and several nephews and nieces.

Kidder funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Stephen P. Matosky Dies In Hospital

Stephen P. Matosky of Millers Falls Rd. died Oct. 29 in a Northampton hospital. He was born Jan. 29, 1909, in Bernardston, son of Anthony and Nellie (Page) Matosky and had been a resident of Northfield for 25 years. On Oct. 19, 1931, he married Tessie Boliski.

In addition to his wife, he leaves a son, Stephen, Jr.; two daughters, Mrs. Irene Abbot and Miss Elizabeth A. Matosky, all at home; a brother, Edward A. Matosky of Millers Falls; four sisters, Mrs. Anna Wilbur of Raymond, N. H., Mrs. Mary Fisher of Mills Falls, Mrs. Esther Clough of Northfield Farms and Mrs. Julia Forsola of California.

A high mass of requiem was held Wednesday at St. Patrick's church. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The honor guard for the funeral service was Wallace Stange and David Scott. Pallbearers were Ted Powell, Winthrop Spence, Eugene Irish, Al Morlick, Billy Walker and Doug Pearsall. The Kidder funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Inventor of Vacuum Tube, Mt. Hermon '93, Visitor

The Northfield Hotel was host to a distinguished visitor this week in the person of Lee de Forest, graduate of Mount Hermon School, class of 1893. Mr. de Forest has been called "the Father of Radio" because of his invention in the early years of the century of the vacuum tube, which made possible radio, television, and all other electronic devices.

The March 1955 issue of the Mount Hermon Alumni News paid a tribute to Mr. de Forest as part of a series titled "Men of Mount Hermon: Men of Service." It read as follows:

There is in the library at Mount Hermon an autographed copy of "Father of Radio: the Autobiography of Lee de Forest." The inscription pays tribute to the "cheering encouragement" of his beloved teacher, Charles E. Dickerson, and to the school where he built the foundation of his career in science and invention.

The book contains a chapter on his days at Mount Hermon, in 1891-93. His home had been Talladega College in Alabama, where his father was president, but where the schools were inadequate to prepare Lee for Yale, his father's alma mater. Interest in Mount Hermon had developed because his sister had enrolled two years before at Northfield School for Girls. His diary of the period gives interesting accounts of the life at Mount Hermon and relationships between the two schools; the work hour, the appearance of Mr. Moody, the privilege of visiting Northfield because he had a sister there, vacation occupations, the preparation to enter Yale "without condition." The summer before entering Yale he absorbed the scientific wonders of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. At Yale, through years filled with studies and invention under the inspiration of famous professors, he won his scientific degree and went on to earn his doctorate.

He had begun experiments in 1903 with the use of heated gases as the agency for detecting electro-magnetic waves. Another stage was reached in 1905 with the use of a vacuum-tube detector, and finally, on January 15, 1907, patent was issued for the "Audion," a high point in the creative career of Lee de Forest. This was the first electronic tube. From it de Forest and others have developed countless variations useful in pure science and practical application.

In his eighty-first year he is still working in California on inventions which may affect us all. And while he works he contemplates the uses to which radio and television have been put. In one of his moments of contemplation he asked of American broadcasters, "What have you gentlemen done with my child?" And, teacher-wise, we at Mount Hermon might reply to the Father of Radio, "Worry no longer about your child, Mr. de Forest. It is natural for him to be somewhat unpredictable in adolescence. But he is a good boy at heart and is growing into a responsible young man. He will make even greater contributions as he grows older. Remember what Mr. Moody used to say, 'It is better farther on.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Racine attended the New England Council of Winter Sportsmen in Hanover, N. H., last week.

David M. Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Scott, has completed his training course at the electronic school at Memphis, Tenn. Now home on 30-day leave, he will leave soon for his next assignment on Hawaii.

Experiences of Immigrant Told At Meeting of Women's Guild

The Women's Guild at Trinitarian Congregational church was addressed by Miss B. Andreassian of the Mount Holyoke college staff last week. She told of her early life in Lebanon, Armenia and contrasted various institutions in eastern and western cultures, particularly marriages, births and deaths. She spoke also of her experiences in this country since she first arrived at Ellis Island nine years ago.

She was only eighteen at the time with only $25 in her pocket and had arrived a day ahead of schedule. Arrangements had been made for her to go to the YWCA and she spoke of the frightening first day experiences of traveling in taxis and elevators and being able to speak but a very few words of English.

She had a scholarship to Keuka College and also went to the Union Theological Seminary. Now she is teaching Bible and philosophy courses at Mount Holyoke College, and serves part-time as minister of the Unitarian church in Amherst.

Mrs. Joseph Reeves led the devotions and Mrs. William Shattuck sang. Mrs. Robert Barnes accompanied at the piano.

Attend Conference

Last Sunday the young people of the Unitarian church went with their pastor, the Reverend Robert Slater, to the Church of the Unity in Springfield for meetings of the Connecticut Valley conferences of Unitarian Churches.

Superintendent F. Sumner Turner has been made vice president of the Franklin County Teachers' Association.

A friendship gift is being gathered for Mrs. Charles Leach, who is confined to Franklin County Hospital. Gifts may be sent Mrs. Mabel Harriman in Northfield or Mrs. E. M. Powell in East Northfield.

Mrs. Ross L. Spencer was recently elected a director of the Franklin County Chapter of the American Red Cross.
